

To Whom It May Concern:

It is my pleasure to write a letter of reference regarding the performance of Lead Generators International (LGI) we recently engaged on a project.

We are a publicly traded high technology company dealing with very high profile clients. To outsource a critical component of our sales process was not a decision we took lightly. I was impressed with the diligence LGI demonstrated in understanding our business which is quite complex and the professionalism with which they approached anything that interacted with our customers.

The project contained some very tight deadlines and each one was achieved. We are very selective in our relationships and I can confidently recommend LGI for their approach and commitment throughout every phase of a project they take on. We look forward to a continued relationship and working with them again in the future.

Please feel free to contact me if you have any questions.

Sincerely,
